This is a flower. This is a painting. This is a paint flower.

Seasons

Each paint flower comes with a tag, or certificate of authenticity, that indicates the season in which it was created.

Materials

Every petal or leaf is a brushstroke of thick acrylic paint, layered over a period of days. Fine galvanised steel wires are used to create the flower stems and the veins of the leaves. A final touch of paint hides the individually coated wires and the textural details make it difficult to discern.. is it a painting or a flower?

Care Instructions

Each paint flower is handmade and unique.
Keep out of direct sunlight or extreme heat.
Do not keep outside or in water.
Gently use microfiber cloth if dust settles.
Keep upright and handle with care.

Commissions

Flowers can be made to order in specific flowers types, various sizes, colours, large quantities or small bouquets.

Packaging

Single flowers are packaged in a bespoke cone or shipment tube of approx. 80cm x 14cm x 14cm.
Larger flowers or bouquets are packaged in a box.

Shipment

Local courier in South Africa under 5kg volume is R100 (Postnet to Postnet)
International shipment will be quoted by order.

Gabi by Gabrielle Kruger is a design brand of art objects that comes out of playful moments of experimentation from the artist's studio. Gabrielle Kruger is a South African artist who is known for developing a practice which pushes the conventions of traditional painting through a masterful handling of her own unique formula of acrylic paint, which she works with in a sculptural manner by extruding and drying pieces of paint to assemble her paintings. With leftover strips and ribbons, she started experimenting making objects in the studio. Under the design brand Gabi, she released a limited run of delicate paint flowers hand-made with acrylic paint and steel wiring. Every petal is essentially a brushstroke, making these flowers sculptural paintings.
